DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Drawings

2. The subject matter of this application admits of illustration by a drawing to facilitate understanding of the invention. Applicant is required to furnish a drawing under 37 CFR 1.81(c). No new matter may be introduced in the required drawing. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Emoto et al [20030027074] in view of Matsuoka et al and Fujino et al [6596453]. Emoto et al teaches the use of a releasing agent and the dispersability of the releasing agent in the toner. The toner particle has a spherical roundness of 0.96 and a particle diameter of 4-6 microns. The toner has 1-15% THF insolubles note [0152]. The releasing agent can be an ester wax [0187]. The dispersion unit of wax is controlled so that the particle diameter and morphology have significant influences on the hot-offset resistance of the toner [0191]. A method for measuring the dispersed particle diameter of wax in the toner is taught in [0195]. A well-balanced state of wax particle in the toner particle is to have the wax particle exist in the vicinity of the surface of the toner particle. The wax particles form islands in the resin of the toner particle. Embedding the toner in an epoxy resin and cutting into ultra-thin slices can measure the amount of wax. The slices can be stained and observed with a transmission electronic microscope [0195-0198]. Matsuoka et al also uses a wax as a releasing agent and measures the dispersability of the releasing agent note Col.2 lines 35-65 and Col.8 lines 32-65. The wax can be an ester Col.7 line 65 and have an acid value of 5mg/g KOH. Fujino et al teaches size and Dv/Dp Col. 18 of the wax containing toner particles. It would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicants' invention with a reasonable expectation of success to use the size and ratio of toner particles and the dispersion of wax in the surface area to control the chargeability and offset ability of a toner used in the fusion of a toner image.
